Blood, sweat and beers

The Human Stein goes for amber!

Five weeks ago, Time Out brought you the inspirational story of one man, 20 steins of bier and a dream. Now, the moment of truth is here: can ex-plumber turned Lowenbrau Keller kegmeister Reinhardt Wurtz enter the Guinness Book of Records by carrying 20 steins over a 40 metre course in under 90 seconds without spilling more than 20 per cent?

The current record is held by uber-beer wench Anita Schwartz, a Bavarian barmaid who managed 16 steins. But fueled by a training regime involving daily meals of giant smoked Schutzenwurst sausages and Hofbrau beer, Reinhardt is an odds-on favourite to lug 46kg of lager to glory this Thursday night.
